The Community Energy Centre is LEED silver and was the first LEED certified building in Strathcona County. The system first began to supply heat in November of 2006. It will reduce greenhouse gas emissions, such as nitrous oxide, carbon monoxide, and sulphur dioxide by 1,100 tonnes each year.

Centre in the Park Area Redevelopment Plan (ARP)

Strathcona County is currently updating the Centre in the Park Area Redevelopment Plan. The existing Centre in the Park ARP was originally completed in 1990 and has resulted in significant redevelopment success.
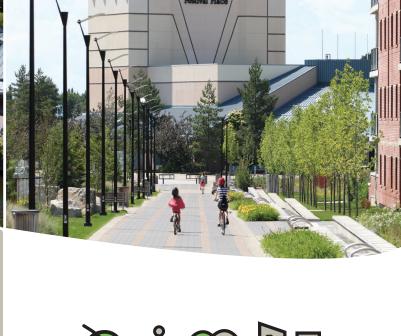

The current update will ensure alignment of the ARP with the new County Municipal Development Plan, direction from the Edmonton Metropolitan Region Board, and contemporary best practices in urban design.

Over the next several years, a revised Area Redevelopment Plan for the Centre in the Park will guide its future land uses, design, transportation network, green space, and overall development.
